Chides Morton

Senator Morton's criticism of the fiasco at the Bay of Pigs is certainly justified. This operation, planned under Eisenhower and attempted under Kennedy by C.I.A.'s Allen Dulles, is the only real blotch on our recent history. Due to this glaring demonstration of incompetence, Dulles was subsequently dismissed by Kennedy.

Senator Morton went on to brag in his Madisonville speech that he served as Assistant Secretary of State under Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles (brother of Allen Dulles). Was this about the time that Castro gathered strength in the mountains and came down to take over Cuba and finally make it a bastion of Communism? Wasn't it a Republican Administration that sat on its hands while Castro came to power?

After having done absolutely nothing to stop Castro, it hardly becomes Republican Senators like Morton, Scott and Keating to be telling President Kennedy how to handle this very delicate problem they left him.
